

STORIES OF HEROIC DEEDS DURING THE PRESENT WAR

LONDON, May 26.—They're telling, about an angry German officer who fell into the hands of a group of English guardsmen.

"I'll never surrender. You may kill me but I'll never surrender to an Englishman," said the German, passionately in the language of his enemy, "I'll surrender to the French but not to you."

"Look here," said the exasperated Tommy as he stood clear of the German's menacing sword, "you mustn't keep us hanging around here all day. Give up that sword."

The French lines were eight miles distant and there wasn't a Frenchman in sight, so Tommy and the German started to fight it out.

The Guardsman's companions stood aside and took no part. It was a duel of sword against bayonet in which perfect skill was shown on each side. The end came suddenly. A sudden bayonet thrust caused the officer to drop his sword and he gave in. He himself, a prisoner, brought the story to London.

"I think there must be something in sport that I never appreciated before," he said, "my hat is off to that Tommy."

PETROGRAD, May 14: (By mail to New York)—The story of the charmed life of Lieutenant Kallinsky, was told here today.

With it was told the bravery of the young Russian student who joined the army when war broke out and how he won three orders of the Cross of St. George.

Kallinsky is known as the "orphan gunner."

At Gumbinnen three German batteries concentrated on the gun served by Kallinsky and a number of comrades. All the horses and all the men fell but Kallinsky. He retired but returned with thirty soldiers and saved the gun. After that the Order of St. George (fourth class) shone on Kallinsky's breast.

Kallinsky's battery again moved to the vicinity of Goldnap where once again the German gunners killed all but Kallinsky. He was again reinforced and saved the gun. This time he earned the Order of St. George (third class.)

Then came the retreat from Augustov forest. Kallinsky's famous gun became mired and he was forced to spike it and flee. The "orphan gunner" then became a scout. Near Lipsk with his brother and two other soldiers Kallinsky negotiated a daring reconnaissance across the River Boar. His brother and one soldier were killed but again Kallinsky escaped. He returned to headquarters with valuable information and the commander pinned the Order of St. George (second class) on his breast.

Kallinsky is still scouting at the front and Petrograd is waiting to hear that he has received the order of St. George (first class.)

LONDON, May 15.—(By mail to New York)—The hero medal record of the war belongs to the First Royal Berkshire.

Men of this regiment has been decorated before but the crowning achievement of its glory came when King George decorated seven members simultaneously for distinguished conduct under fire. Their feats of gallantry were performed at different times. Heading the list of the gallant seven is Acting Corporal Henry Day who left a trench in Northern France under heavy fire to obtain water for a wounded man. Though wounded he filled his canteen safely and aided his companion to drink before his wound weakened him into unconsciousness.

Second comes Acting Corporal Geo. Babcock, who, with a handful of men held a forward trench against overwhelming odds, so tenaciously that the Germans concluded that it was held in force and drew off. Acting Sergeant William Winter is next. Winter left his trench under fire and recovered a machine gun which had been buried by a shell. He then worked the gun unaided and repulsed a detachment of the enemy. Acting Corporal Nalen and Lance Corporal C. G. Hill followed in order while they received their medals. Nalen crawled from his trench and in a hail of the enemy fire cut away a tree that was masking the fire of British guns. Hill led a detachment of men through a hedge into the face of bullets. He was wounded.

Two of the seven are privates. Private J. Elm entered a house occupied by a number of Germans who were firing on his company and, single handed cleared them out. Only three escaped. He was wounded. Driver E. Harris comes next. Harris carried urgent messages under heavy fire on two occasions and returned safely.

ITALY'S ENTRANCE BRINGS MANY TROOPS

ROME, May 26.—The entrance of Italy into the war throws close to 2,000,000 thoroughly trained and splendidly equipped soldiers into the scale on the side of the allies on land, and a fleet of sixteen battleships, six of them powerful dreadnaughts into the forces at sea. The months that have intervened since the outbreak of the war and Italy's intervention have been utilized in learning all the lessons to be taught by the campaigns on both fronts and in preparing both army and navy to "the last button."

Italy has had an army of at least 1,000,000 men massed along the Austrian frontier, facing a probably numerically inferior force of Germans and Austrians, who, however, hold the upper ground and are undoubtedly strongly fortified.

Military experts, however, agree that there is at least a strong probability that there will be made no serious attempt to invade Austria by direct frontal attack. The frontier will be strongly held against counter-invasion. It is thought, but a large proportion of the Italian army will go to battle either in France, or to attempt a landing on the Dalmatian coast or to reinforce the expeditionary army now fighting to force the Dardanelles.

SAYS ITALY'S ENTRY WILL SOON END WAR

PETROGRAD, May 26.—"Italy's entry into the war will make the war of much shorter duration; it will have an enormous influence on the attitude of neutral countries and will lead to the reapproachment of state whose interests seem at present to be opposed," said Sergius Sazonoff, Russian foreign minister to a correspondent of Reuters.

He said he did not believe that Bulgaria will move against Russia under any circumstances.

"In any case," the foreign minister continued, "no hostile power can henceforth be reinforced at the expense of any neutral country whatever." He declared the Italian-Serbian relations are perfectly amicable, and that Russia's task with regard to Serbia will not be fulfilled unless Serbia received a free outlet on the Adriatic. "I have declared," he added, "that Serbia will have free ports which will be absolutely her own."

CHINA-JAPAN TREATY IS SIGNED AT LAST

PEKING, May 26.—Two treaties between China and Japan, together with thirteen notes were signed by the Chinese foreign office. This act then brought to a conclusion negotiations which have been going on since January, when Japan, shortly after the fall of the German position, Kiaochow, presented her well known demands to China.

AUSTRIAN AND ITALIAN ARMIES FIGHTING HARD

ROME, May 26.—Under the command of King Emmanuel, 120,000 Italian troops crossed the Italian border and drove back a lesser force of Austrians and Germans, captured the cities of Coropetta, Cormono, Cervignano and Terzo. A force of 5,000 Italians drove back a force of 4,000 Austrians, after a hand to hand fight.

PEOPLE ARE SUPPORTING HUNT ARIZONA LEGISLATURE "IN BAD"

The legislature is about to adjourn without passing an appropriation bill. Nearly four weeks of work and $25,000 have been wasted.

"A word from Hunt would straighten the entire matter," said a member today. "Just a little unbending from his pose as dictator. Blame for this ghastly business lies at his door. The people will see that the responsibility is not shirked."—Arizona Gazette.

The Examiner has no patience with those who continuously attack Gov. Hunt for no better reason, apparently, than to satisfy a grudge. If the legislature has failed there are reasons for it, the best one of which lies at the door of Democratic incompetency, something the American people are painfully familiar with.

But, let's put the blame where it belongs.

Governor Hunt has had the Democratic legislature opposed to him continuously, and the lesson which the people should learn from it is that to follow blindly the party names—a failing common to many Democrats—is poor business for the man who pays taxes.

But to return to Governor Hunt, the Examiner heartily concurs in the following remarks of Judge Westover this morning:

"From what we know and have seen of the work of the present legislature we are with Governor Hunt in his controversy with the legislature. If there is a controversy it is not of his making. A newspaper ought to publish the truth. We do not believe that the Gazette's best friends will give it much credit for the continued abuse which it has heaped upon the governor of this state and the vindictiveness with which it has assailed the members of the legislature who have stood for a square deal in taxing mining companies. We have no means of knowing what the sentiment is over the state, but Governor Hunt is stronger in Yuma county today than he was when he received 800 majority last November. We recognize in him an 'Honest Man,' the noblest work of God. He is not a genius but he is square and decent. He would not stoop to an ignoble action. He has been a governor for all of the people and he has played no favorites. He can't be bought nor bullied. For his unswerving honesty and ideals we admire him. We had rather take his judgment and follow his lead than to take the judgment of the Gazette. Governor Hunt is not an orator and he can not make a speech as graceful and pleasing as some. But he has a blunt way of saying things that carry conviction. He is one of the people and the people believe in him. If he were a candidate for governor again the people would rally to his standard. It is to be regretted that the mining corporations of this state can not understand that they must pay their fair share of the taxes. That is the whole meat in the cocoon. We very much regret that one member of the Yuma delegation has lined up with these corporate interests. That member does not represent Yuma county. This county is for the administration. It endorses Hunt."

MEXICAN BULLETS AGAIN FALL OVER LINE

DOUGLAS, May 26.—A number of bullets fell here from Agua Prieta, where the Mexican garrison indulged in heavy firing in celebration of the victory by Oregon near Monterey. During the celebration it was reported that two women were attacked and Frank Gardner, an American, was wounded and robbed. No one was hurt here. Jesse Lasky, a negro, reported to the United States military officials that a bullet struck his house a few feet from where his wife was standing.

PUBLIC HEALTH FOR STATE OF WASHINGTON

As a result of several months of careful study of the public health administration in the State of Washington the U. S. Public Health Service has reached the conclusion that the adoption and enforcement of measures for the protection of public health in the state of Washington have not kept pace with the growth of the state.

In a bulletin just issued on the subject, the U. S. Public Health Service carefully analyses the various functions and activities of the Washington State Board of Health and makes recommendations, the adoption of which it is believed, will meet the present public health needs of that state. Very briefly summarized, these recommendations are that all public health activities now performed by the state should be brought together in a single department of health, to be subdivided into bureaus, with a Commissioner of Health as the administrative head and the State Board of Health as an advisory and quasi-legislative body. The functions of the various bureaus are carefully outlined and it is recommended that the state be divided into not less than fifteen health districts, each to be under a whole-time district health officer of adequate training and experience in the science of public health. It is also recommended that the state be divided into three districts, each to be put under the supervision of a sanitary engineer. Provision is made for laboratories and the passage of various model laws, one for morbidity reports receiving special attention.

This report is one of a series of studies which the U. S. Public Health Service has made of the various state health organizations with the aim of standardizing the operations of the various sanitary bodies in the United States. The accomplishment of this end will do much to bring about uniformity of action on the part of public health officials and to secure efficiency in the various state and municipal organizations.

BIOGRAPHY OF A GRADUATE OF THE YUMA UNION HIGH SCHOOL

Joe Huss, the president of the senior class and the student body of the Yuma Union High School, came to this city in 1902. Entering the Yuma schools two years later, he has steadily progressed until now he is ready to receive the highest honor attainable in this institution—the diploma of graduation.

Born in the grand old state of Texas, in 1896, the son of S. P. Huss, Joe migrated to this sunny state of Arizona in 1902. In 1904, we find him entering the Yuma Grammar schools, a little chap in knee trousers. In due course of time, he was permitted to enter the Yuma Union High School on his solemn promise of good behavior.

Joe's popularity, even from the start of his high school career, is attestable by the fact that he was elected captain of the baseball team during his freshman year. So well did he perform the duties of this important office, that he was re-elected to this position for the following term, and also president of the Sophomore class.

In his junior year came the crowning glory of his entire school career, when he was elected to the highest office the students have to offer—that of president of the student body. During the same term he was captain of the football team and his success with it was most pronounced.

This year his last in Yuma, he has been president of the student body again, fullback of the football team, and president of the senior class—in all, one of the most popular young men who ever graduated from this school, not only with the girls, the boys and the faculty, but with everyone.

This fall, Joe expects to enter the State University, where he intends to take a full agricultural course, and we feel sure that he will prove just as popular, just as loyal, and just as efficient in his new field as here.

While we regret to lose from the student body such a valued member as Joe V. Huss, he has the hearty sincere and best wishes for a successful and happy life, of the entire Yuma Union High School.

P. S.—After carefully re-reading the above, we find that we have omitted certain illustrious facts about Joe's career, which, left out, would make his history incomplete. They are as follows:

In the first place, Joe was captain of the football team in the fall of 1913, when they took second place in a state-wide contest held at the Phoenix state fair.

Secondly, we sent Joe to Tucson this spring, to the Inter-Scholastic track meet, where he distinguished himself by breaking the state record in the discus throw taking second place in the pole vault, and third in the shot-put.

AFTERMATH OF THE OLD MAGNUSSEN CASE

The case of W. J. Hayes and Lawrence Adams, charged with selling merchandise without a license, has been set for trial before Justice of the Peace H. H. Baker at Somerton, next Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Three men were arrested by the sheriff last week and booked as being wanted in connection with disposing of the stock of Heinrich Magnusson. Adams is at present under a $500 bond on a charge of larceny of cattle and was one of the principal witnesses in the Molina and Magnusson cases.

Hayes was also identified with the Magnusson case as a witness. It is said that he settled in the vicinity of Gadsden about the time of the opening of the new town, from Mexicali.

It is said that Heinrich Magnusson, the butcher at Gadsden, who was recently acquitted on a charge of buying stolen cattle, has left for the Imperial valley.

SMILES, KIND WORDS, GOD'S BEST AGENCIES

The person that tries each day to do a little something that will cause smiles to drive away tears; that will put sunshine into a sad heart; that will in a word make associates better and happier and more cheerful, that person is one of God's noblest of creatures and is a benefactor to all mankind. Smiles and cheerful words in this world are worth so much. Like the pebble dropped into the lake, they will cause the wave to go on and on and on, rippling merrily, and find lodgment in hearts. They are God's best agencies.
